Sally & Tim:

Can you tell me if this report has been released?

A Utah University is working on an Economic Analysis of GSENM and they are asking us for any prior/current reports that we know about. We can direct them to quite a few published reports, including Headwaters, but it would be nice to share this report with them.

Thanks

Allison and Cindy,

I uploaded an economic snapshot ("2016 Economic Snapshot - Grandstaircase-Escalante National Monument) in the Grand Staircase-Escalante/Economics folder on the google drive.

These 2016 snapshots were developed for each BLM national monument as part of a broader report entitled "An Analysis of the Economic Effects of National Conservation Lands." The report was developed and reviewed in coordination with Rebecca Moore (BLM Federal Economist) and other federal economists. The analysis uses established methodologies developed by the National Park Service. BLM leadership has been briefed on the report and key statistics and we're just finishing up a few loose ends on the report before we can release the entire report.

We don't have a similar snapshot for Bears Ears because it's so new.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

Sally
